

EPISODE 100 LEVEL A1.2/ A2.1

READING COMPREHENSION

BODY SIZE AND BODY PARTS

You can say that Mr and Mrs Brown are an average (= typical) couple. His name is Jack and her name is Kate. They've got two children – a boy and a girl.

Are they tall or short? Mr and Mrs Brown are not tall or short. They are both of average height (not tall and not short).

Are they fat or slim? Mr Smith is certainly not weak or skinny (= very slim), but he is also not well built (= strong, with big muscles) or obese (= really fat). He is just average. Mrs Smith cannot be described as thin (= slim), but she is also not overweight (= fat).

Every part of their bodies is average size. Their feet are neither big nor small. Their hips (= the part of your body between waist and legs) are not too wide and their legs are not too short.

Mr and Mrs Smith are just an average couple. Except for one thing. They are the only couple in the country which is average in so many ways. This means that the Smiths are in fact quite unique.

BODY PARTS TRADE

A serious shortage of donated organs in rich countries is leading to a worrying increase in the illegal body parts trade. Rich foreigners who are seriously ill are looking to poorer nations like China, Colombia, Egypt, Pakistan and the Philippines to get an organ that will give them a new life. "Transplant tourists" are finding it easier to find new organs because the number of poor people who want to sell their liver or kidney as a short-term escape from poverty increases.

The body part trade is banned in many countries around the world but laws are often very confusing. This makes it difficult for authorities to regulate and to crack down on illegal sales, which increases the number of deaths among donors. In Pakistan there is a "kidney bazaar" - rich patients pay $8,000 for a new kidney, for which donors are paid $300 - $1,000 and often get no medical care after the surgery. China recently banned the sale of human organs and restricted transplants for foreigners.
